If you have questions about whether any of your completed or projected work listed above will satisfy designation requirements please share them in the space provided below.

INTELLECTUAL CURIOSITY

A core value of the University Honors College is intellectual curiosity, which animates students to seek breadth in their intellectual challenges. Please explain how you anticipate the possibility of satisfying this requirement by either: a) listing the honors course or HCE you have completed or plan to complete outside your major; b) listing the double major or second degree you have earned or aim to earn; or c) explaining the possibility that something else you have completed or may be planning could satisfy the intellectual curiosity requirement in some other way.

SOCIAL CONSCIOUSNESS

A core value of the University Honors College is social consciousness. In your final application, you will be asked to write a 250-500 word statement that describes how you showed concern for others during your undergraduate career, reflects on the impact you made, and describes what you learned. Below, in 200 words or fewer, describe one activity you have completed or are considering that might position you well to write such an essay on your final application. Examples may include, but are not limited to, a community-based research fellowship, teaching assistantship, tutoring, leadership in a service organization, service in a clinical setting, or organizing for social change.
